AITHENT INDIA HR POLICY AND RELATED PROCEDURE

MOBILE USAGE POLICY

Version: 1.0/2014

This document is the exclusive property of Aithent India. Printing, copying, circulation or distribution of this document, or any part thereof without the prior written permission of Office of Professional Management is strictly prohibited.

OBJECTIVE

As the usage of mobile phones in the work place is disruptive, results in loss of productive time and effects concentration and efficiency, this policy has been formulated.

SCOPE

All employees of Aithent.

GUIDELINES

- Refrain from using cell phone at work: Prolonged conversation over the cell phone should be strictly refrained at work. Excessive personal calls during the workday reduces productivity and be distracting to others. Employee should restrict personal calls during work and should ensure that their friends and family members are instructed of this policy.
- Turn Your Cell Phone Ringer Off: Always keep your cells phone either on vibration mode or at a very low tone. The sounds of different ring tones going off all the time can be very annoying to others. Sometimes it is irritating to coworkers if it rings and rings when you are away from your desk.
- Use Your Cell Phone Only for Important Calls: If you have your cell phone at work, you should only use it for important calls and for emergency call not for unnecessary chatting purpose.
- Let Your Cell Phone Calls Go to Voice Mail: While you are at work if you are in doubt about whether an incoming call is important, let voice mail pick it up. It will take much less time to check your messages than it will to answer the call and then tell the caller you can't talk.
- Don't Bring Your Cell Phone to Meetings: During a meeting, it is best to turn off your cell phone. Do not use it to text, read or post status updates, or play games. Don't bury your nose in your phone. Keep your eyes on whomever is speaking and stay engaged in the meeting.
